

Jason Coughlin
Project Director
McCarthy Building Companies, Colorado Office

Jason Coughlin is a project director for McCarthy's Colorado office. A noted industry professional, Coughlin has held numerous high-level positions at some of the most well-known and well-respected regional construction companies. He possesses a wealth of knowledge and experience in healthcare and education construction. A team builder and problem solver, Coughlin also has been instrumental in growing McCarthy's presence in the state's solar market.

Prior to joining McCarthy, Coughlin was a construction manager with Kiewit Building Group and PCL Construction in Denver after beginning his career in Canada. Significant projects have included the UC Health work longs Peak, Children's Aggie Village project at Colorado State University, the $600M Niagara Health, Walker Family Cancer Center and the $170M Pan Am Aquatic Center and Fieldhouse, the crown jewel of the 2015 Pan American Games.

Coughlin serves on the Colorado Association of General Contractor's Subcontractor Relations Committee. He has participated in several leadership programs including the Denver Chamber of Commerce's Impact Denver and the Downtown Denver Partnership Leadership Class of 2020. He also has contributed to the HCC's Contractor Academy summer sessions by lending his expertise to aid businesses gain access to the resources they need to be successful.

Coughlin holds a Bachelor of Arts degree in Geography from the University of Western Ontario and a diploma in Architectural Technology from the Mohawk College of Applied Arts and Technology. He enjoys golfing, playing hockey, traveling with his wife and spending time with his two teenage daughters.